Preamble

You are about to undertake serious, professional, and structured flight training. During your training, you will be challenged and questioned. Stick & Rudder Aviation instructors will make every effort to keep the training atmosphere fun and fulfilling.

All aspects, within our lesson plan (published on our web site), will be covered regardless of the degree of training you require.

Regardless of your Pilot licensing or level of experience - Stick & Rudder Aviation instructors will remain the Pilot-In-Command (PIC) throughout your training. If at anytime you feel concerned for your safety, we expect you to query the instructor for further explanation, AND immediately ask to stop the maneuver.

You will be training in a responsive airplane (at precise airspeeds), with varied weather conditions, in a new environment, and with diverse topography - for which you may be quite unfamiliar. Please understand, your instructor has the experience and skills in these conditions and areas. Please respectfully trust their judgement.

Deposit

Please understand - as our training programs are all several days to weeks of undivided attention towards your training needs. A last-minute cancellation can leave a large hole in our training schedule that cannot be filled at the last-minute (as the majority of our clients come from out-of-the-state and country). Therefore, a deposit is required to reserve a training window on our schedule - even for a one day Demonstration flight / 1st lesson.

Once we receive your deposit (you will not be invoiced) - we will Email you a statement of the deposit on account, and a confirmation of your reserved dates. We require a minimum $500 deposit for every week you reserve on our schedule.

Please review and include a signed copy of at least signature page of our "Contract for Training Services" with your deposit. A link to a printable copy is on the web site

Please send a personal or bank check and contract to:

We can accept PayPal payments (where you can either use your credit card, or bank account). Our account is listed under our Email address.

<https://www.paypal.com/us/home>

Typically in-country (US) transfers are free of service fees. Any services fees Stick & Rudder Aviation incurs will be subtracted from your deposit or added to your final invoice (depending on the timeframe of your training).

Cancellations

Any change in your commitment for the reserved training window - Stick & Rudder Aviation must be notified immediately in writing by Email. Please realize, due to our demand, we may not be able to make any changes as other clients are immediately leading or following your training window.

The deposit is NON-refundable if you cancel within 30 days of your reservation.

Should circumstances arise that you must cancel, we will then hold your deposit on account for 6 months in the hopes you will reschedule your training. Once you start your training, the deposit will be used towards your training balance.

Scheduling

Please Email us with your preferred dates options FIRST - as our training schedule is far too dynamic and complicated for us to just give you our availability. Once we compare your preferred dates options with our training schedule - we will Email you an acknowledgement that your preferred dates will work OR options around your preferred dates. We need a start date of your proposed training AND and the last day of your training. Please realize, typically (based on airline schedules) you will need to arrive the day before the start of your training. If you plan to train and return home, the same day, on your last day - we need to know your departure timing in advance - so we can schedule the stop of your training in time.

As a courtesy, your acknowledged training dates will be reserved for you for 7 days from our last Email conversation - awaiting for your deposit.

If we do not receive your deposit - we will send one last Email reminder for immediate deposit and signed "Contract for Training Services" - and then your dates will be opened back up to others.

Payments

During your training you will be invoiced once per week, or within a couple days of the end of your training (which ever comes sooner).

As there will most likely be a balance due at the end of your training - you will be invoiced by Email within a week of the completion of your training. If needed, a hard copy can be mailed to your home.

To minimize any accounting errors - please do not ask the Instructors to calculate your training expenses.

Feel free to tip your instructors if you feel appropriate, but this is not necessary, nor customary in this service.

We would appreciate payment immediately upon receiving your Emailed invoice - via a check or PayPal.

<https://www.paypal.com/us/home>

If you must use a credit card - we can process them manually via a phone call to my wife Terry. Unfortunately, based on our margins & few transactions - the processing fee we are charged (3%), will be added to your charge.

Please note: Payment is due immediately upon receipt of our Emailed invoice - we are not net 30 days.

Payments not received within 10 days of your Emailed invoice date - will accrue finance charges based @ 20% (annually).

Caveats

Stick & Rudder Aviation is attentive to the considerable investment you are making to obtain professional flight training and the value of your limited training time here in Idaho. Nevertheless, unforeseen or uncontrollable situations arise.

Please understand, Stick & Rudder Aviation will not be held accountable...

- For weather delays:
Concern for your safety drives our conservative go/no-go decisions.
- For airport taxi, traffic pattern, or fueling delays:
You will learn the STOL capabilities of the Kitfox, gaining the confidence with intersection takeoffs, short approaches, and long landings to save you flight time.
- For mechanical failures.
Our Kitfox(s) receive Annual Condition Inspections (every 100 hours rather than yearly).
Therefore, historically, in conjunction with Kitfox's high reliability - mechanical issues are few. With our symbiotic relationship with the factory (less than 30 minutes away) most maintenance concerns are usually resolved in a very timely and efficient manner.
- For the reserved training window being insufficient time to accomplish your goals.
Everyone learns at a different rate, please don't rush the training.

We thank you for choosing Stick & Ruder Aviation training programs, and we look forward to flying with you.
