

Contract for Training Services

with

Stick & Rudder Aviation

(a dba of Stick & Rudder, LLC)

Preamble

You are about to undertake serious, professional, and structured flight training. During your training, you will be challenged and questioned. Stick & Rudder Aviation instructors will make every effort to keep the training atmosphere fun, fulfilling, and enlightening.

All aspects, within our lesson plan (published on our web site), will be covered regardless of the degree of training you require.

Regardless of your Pilot licensing or level of experience - Stick & Rudder Aviation instructors will remain the Pilot-In-Command (PIC) throughout your training.

If at anytime you feel concerned for your safety, we expect you to query the instructor for further explanation, AND immediately ask to stop the maneuver.

You will be training - in a responsive airplane (at precise airspeeds), with varied weather conditions, in a new environment, and with diverse topography - for which you may be quite unfamiliar. Please understand, your instructor has the experience and skills in these conditions and areas - please respectfully trust their judgement.

Pre-Training Deposit

Please understand - as our training programs are all several days to weeks of undivided attention towards your training goals; A last-minute cancellation can leave a large hole in our training schedule that can not be filled at the last-minute (as the majority of our clients come from out-of-state and out-of-country).

Therefore, a "Training" deposit is required to reserve a training window on our schedule - even for a one day Demonstration flight / 1st lesson.

Once your Training Window dates have been coordinated with your preferences and our availability - we courtesy hold the dates in reserve from other clients - for only 7 business days - awaiting your Training deposit, and signed "Contract for Services".

You will not be invoiced for your "Training" deposit - this is up to you to submit within 7 business days.

Preferred method for submission - is a personal check by postal mail - and electronically send a picture of the "Contract for Services" signature page.

Once we receive your Training deposit - we will Email you a statement of the Training deposit on account, and a confirmation of your reserved dates.

We require a minimum $2000 "Training" deposit for every (2-7 days) of TRAINING reserved on our schedule, AND a signed "Contract for Services".

For a one-day sales DEMONSTRATION / 1st Kitfox lesson - we require a $400 deposit, AND a signed "Contract for Services".

If you are requesting an aircraft ferry service, or Out-of-Town Training the following will be invoiced at the completion of training, AND a deposit (estimating these expenses) may be requested:

In-country (US) transfer fees are typically 3.5%. Out-of-Country transfer fees vary by country and cross-border exchange rate - average 5%.

Any services fees Stick & Rudder Aviation incurs will subtracted from your deposit, or added to your final invoice (depending on the timeframe of your training). We do not accept credit cards for training deposits.

Cancellations

Any change in your commitment for the reserved training window - Stick & Rudder Aviation must be notified immediately in writing by Email. Please realize, due to the demand for our training - we may not be able to make any changes - as other clients may be immediately leading or following your training window.

We immediately pay for Wilderness Lodging (in full) once we receive your "Training" deposit and signed "Contract for Services"

Based on our lengthy Email & phone choreography required to set up, and assure, your overnight "Backcountry Training Tour" - Any changes to your Wilderness lodging reservations - will be charged @ $40/lodge administration fee.

Because of the higher demand on their availability - within their short open duration (May 15 - October 15) - Lodging payments are NON-refundable less than 60 days out, and typically incur their administration fee in the refund - some lodges up to 50% of the total cost.

Your "Training" deposit is also NON-refundable, if you cancel within 90 days of your reservation.

Should circumstances arise that you must cancel, we will then hold your Training deposit on account for up to 6 months in the hopes you will reschedule your training within our training season (ending Thanksgiving). The Wilderness Lodges always do their best to re-schedule us (only within the same season), but availability not guaranteed.

Once you start your training, the deposit will be used towards your overall training balance.

Scheduling

Please Email us with your preferred dates options FIRST - as our training schedule is far too dynamic and complicated for us to just give you our availability. Once we compare your preferred dates options with our training schedule - we will Email you an acknowledgement that your preferred dates will work OR other options around your preferred dates.

We need a start date of your proposed training AND and the last day of your training to help choreograph your training based on your goals.

Please realize, typically (based on airline schedules) you will need to arrive the day before the start of your training. If you plan to train and return home, the same day, on your last day - we need to know your departure timing in advance - so we can schedule the stop of your training in-time.

If we do not receive your "Training" deposit within 7 business days - we will Email you a "Just curious if still interested" reminder requesting an immediate Training deposit and signed "Contract for Services" - OR your dates will be opened back up to be available for other Pilots.

Post-Training Payments

As there will most likely be a balance due at the end of your training - you will be invoiced by Email within a week of the completion of your training. If needed, a hard copy can be mailed to your home.

To minimize any accounting errors - please do not ask the Instructors to calculate your training expenses.

Feel free to tip your instructors if you feel appropriate, but this is not necessary, nor customary in this service.

We would appreciate (and expect) payment immediately upon receiving your Emailed invoice - via a personal check, PayPal, or Zelle We are not net 30 days.

Please advise if you are planning to use PayPal - we will then calculate the PayPal transfer fee (based on your country) and add this within your post-training invoice.

If you must to use a credit card - we can process them manually via a phone call to my lovely wife Terry. Unfortunately, based on our margins & our few transactions - the processing fee we are charged (6%), will be added to your charge.

Payments not received within 10 days of your Emailed invoice date - will accrue finance charges based @ 20% (annually).

Caveats

Stick & Rudder Aviation is attentive to the considerable investment you are making to obtain professional flight training and the value of your limited training time here in Idaho. Nevertheless, unforeseen or uncontrollable situations arise.

Please understand, Stick & Rudder Aviation will not be held accountable...

- For weather delays:

(Concern for your safety drives our conservative go/no-go decisions)
- For airport taxi, traffic pattern, or fueling delays:

(You will learn the STOL capabilities of the Kitfox, gaining the confidence with intersection takeoffs, short approaches, and long landings to save you flight time).
- For mechanical failures.

Our Kitfox(s) receive Annual Condition Inspections (every 100 hours rather than yearly).
Therefore, historically, in conjunction with Kitfox's high reliability - mechanical issues are few. With our symbiotic relationship with the factory (13 min (8.9 miles) away) - most maintenance concerns are usually resolved in a very timely and efficient manner.
- For the reserved training window being insufficient time to accomplish your goals.

(Everyone learns at a different rate - please don't rush the training)
- For lack of preparation:

We strive to offer thorough and efficient training in the shortest amount of time (saving cost), but this responsibility must be shared by the client. Not taking the time to adequately prepare for your training - with a full understanding of the concepts - will only cost you time (and money).

We reserve the right to postpone training, if we determine you are not adequately prepared for the training. Please follow our Email instruction and Web site recommendations for "How to prep for your training" AND "What to bring".
